This and the other writings of Diana Vaughan were suppressed as far as possible, and bought up as rapidly as they were published, but a few copies are still in existence, and most of the little that is known of Satanism outside of the members of the secret order has been learned ers of the secret order has been learned

Satanism, Luciferianism, Diabolism—it is all the same thing—has ramifications throughout the civilized world, and, it is whitspered, has its votatics even in New York. Its members despise self-restraint, and, it is declared, practice such orgies as cannot even be hinted at.

For their black mass, says a French writer, they rob Roman Catholic churches of their chalices and hosts, which they profane in a most biasphemous manner. The ceremonies are said to be based on the authority of Ezechiel and Vintras.

In a thick cloud of perfume the priest ascends the alther at Satan's synagogue. On the table is seen a goat with a human face, already excited by some preliminary homages and intoxicated by perfumes and adoration. The priest opens a box and takes out some hosts, such as are ordinarily used by the faithful.

The rites performed and the words spoken during the magical ceremony are biasphenous in character, and the sacred vessel and its contents are subject to insult and mockety. The goat plays the infernal part, cursting and revilling, and the conclusion of the rites is an oray which cannot be described.

Vintras was an unfrocked monk, who introduced the cuit from somewhere into France, whence it spread to Martinique, as if the island did not have troubles enough without this added curse.

Children Killed for Sacrifice.

Another writer, one Jules Blats, of Paris, has this to say about the Satanists:

"The principal among Satan's disciples is the woman, or so-clere, as she is called. To her is delegated the awni duty of killing the children intended for sacrifice and whose blood is drunk by the fanatics. To her is also given the task, after a certain novitlate, of enticing men to join the order and enroll themselves under the devil's banner.

canner. Then there is the 'sorcier,' who is what might be called a doctor. These men officiate at certain ceremonies, but not at the highest; that honor is delegated to the Magi, who is the head of the whole society. He stands alone and emilpotent, at once superhuman and inhuman, importunate and unapproachable. The last Magi was Doc-tor Johannes, considered the greatest exor-cist of modern times and an ardent follower Vintras, who is looked upon as supreme and is believed to control the actions and houghts of the faithful from the Great eyond." Whether Diana Vaughan was spared the cording to her testimony, for other noviliates into the order, it is difficult to deter-mine from her memoirs. She says she was spared through the expressed wish of her father on his deathbed, but in another place she conveys a contrary impression.

With herself, she says, will perish the last of the race of Thomas Vaughan, the Rose Cro'x alchemist of mediaeval days. Her uncle has no children and will have none, and she has consecrated herself to the church and will die childies.

CANCEROUS Are in many respects like other nicers or sores, and this resemblance often proves fatal. Valuable time is lost in fruitless efforts to heal the sore with washes and salves, because the germs of Cancer that are multiplying in the blood and the new Cancer cells which are constantly developing keep up the irritation and discharge, and at last sharp shooting pains announce the approach of the eating and sloughing stage, and a hideous, sickening cancerous sore begins it destructive work. In February, 1899, I noticed a small

No ulcer or sore can exist without some predisposing internal cause that has poisoned the blood, and the open discharging ulcer, or the festering sore on the lip, cheek or other part of the body will continue to spread and eat deeper since. W. P. Brown, Hollands, S. C. into the flesh until the blood has been purified and the Cancer germs or morbid matter eliminated from the circulation.

S. S. S. cleanses the blood of all decaying effete matter. It has great antidotal and purifying properties that soon destroy the germs and poisons and restore the blood to its natural condition. And when pure blood is carried SSS to the ulcer or sore the healing process begins, the discharge ceases and the place heals over and new skin forms. S. S. S. is a strictly vegetable blood purifier containing no mercury or mineral of any description.
